The Munzee legacy game has been a huge success this week, allowing all guests the chance to meet new people. Conference guests have reached a record-breaking pace of 22 scans per minute.

Other munzees have reached record-breaking status as well. For example, the Munzee that was displayed at the show was captured more than 4,000 times in under five minutes.

This game has broken countless records and everyone who plays is leaving a legacy by proving the power of social media.

The Munzee game will end Friday at 6 p.m. and the wining guest, lodge, section, and region will be announced at the Friday night pre-show. The conference leader board, which can be found at www.munzee.com/noac, will go offline Thursday at midnight to give a sense of surprise as to who the winners will be.

Lost and found

Lost something? Do not go home without it until after you check out lost and found. You will save money by doing so since you will not have to buy it again!

What appeared on The Press' radar today.

- ▶ The item most often lost at NOAC is sunglasses. Hundreds of you are now 17% less cool than you were with sunglasses, and frankly, you can't afford that loss.
- ▶ Since 8:00 am Monday morning, NOAC guests have scanned an average of 22 Munzees per minute. Don't any of you do anything else? You're more obsessed than the patch traders.
- ▶ In order to show solidarity with the other members of the BSA's national Key 3, our national commissioner (and national OA committee member) will now affectionately be known as Wayne Perez.
- ▶ The gold medal won by NESAs@NOAC panel speaker Steven Holcomb is worth about $500 in raw materials; however, he would have paid about $8000 in taxes for the honorarium he received. Maybe it doesn't play to win first place?

Be present at Founder's Day to celebrate the past and future

NED LUNDQUIST

A parade, banners, totems, mascots, and a torch lit by an Olympian will begin the Founder's Day festivities this Friday. All of the excitement will begin at 8 a.m. on Frank Young Field.

After the torch lighting, Founder's Day Conference Vice Chief Frank Gamez of O-Shot-Caw Lodge states, "The Goodman Games will commence, featuring leadership, team-building contests and other fun activities." Dan Gallup of Owaneco Lodge says, "It's the event I look forward to the most at NOAC. It is an all around blast to participate in."

No pre-registration is required to compete. Guests can enter as individuals or as a group; they do not have to sign up in advance or remain together as a contingent.

As the Goodman Games draw to a close, guests will enjoy a picnic lunch at Munn Field, followed by the Founder's Fair in the afternoon.

"Lodges will have their display booths with fun activities and giveaways from their respective geographic locations," Gamez says. "The staff will also have giveaways and live entertainment throughout the day." Andrew McCloskey of Owaneco Lodge remarks "It's cool to go and see the different booths and what makes each state unique."

Guests should bring a plain t-shirt to be decorated with a special design commemorating attendance at Founder's Day and declaring our commitment to leaving a legacy.

Gamez says Founder's Day is dedicated to the Arrowmen who made our Order what it is today. "Everyone who comes to NOAC and Founder's Day is part of that legacy and we are the future."

If you are a winner please pick up your prize today at the Brody Trading Post, which closes at 12:00 p.m. Congratulations to all who participated and those who won!

Let the Goodman Games begin!

ALAN RANDALL

Leave No Trace (LNT), water conservation, communication, first aid, scout skills, and team building. These things all come together to create a NOAC highlight: the Goodman Games. The games feature competitions that test Scout skills past their common applications. It is also rumored there will be lots of giveaways to reinforce the lessons taught through the games.

T. Alex Hill, Goodman Games youth leader says, "There is so much to do at the Goodman Games and once you see it, you won't regret it." Hill told us that the first-aid area is his favorite. Activities such as splinting a broken limb, stretcher racing, and treating mock wounds are going to highlight the segment. "You never know when the skills that you have learned in Scouts can come to use in everyday life..." says Robert Slapikas, Founder's Day staff member, "...and sometimes they come to use in extraordinary situations."

The Goodman Games will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on Ralph Young Field. Hill's final thoughts: "Come out and celebrate our founders, it is going to be a blast!"

Arrowmen reflect on AIA competitions

Busy week of Native American competition yields valuable lessons

DEVIN BOYER

“It felt neat that we were honoring another culture.” This is how Sam B. of the Mawat Woakus Lodge #449 describes participating in the American Indian dance competitions at NOAC 2012. Throughout the week, Arrowmen from across the country have competed in various styles of American Indian dancing and singing. The best performances in the country competed in the final round last night, in a beautiful display of talent showcasing intense preparation by Order of the Arrow members.

There were 341 total dancers participating in six different styles of dance during the competition. Grass dance and traditional dance were the two most popular styles, accounting for nearly 200 of the dancers. The other four styles of dance, while not drawing poools of dancers quite as large as the first two styles, are certainly no less impressive in terms of skill required. These styles consisted of prairie chicken dance, fancy dance, Old Time Sioux dance and straight dance. Finally, four lodges brought teams to participate in the group dance competition.

Besides the dance competition, there were also two singing competitions that took place. 15 lodges participated in the Southern Drum competitution, with two additional lodges bringing teams to participate in the Northern Drum competition.

Jaren M. of Eglin, Texas, a member of Tonkawa Lodge knows firsthand the amount of training that goes into a high-quality dance routine. When he completed his Ordeal, his father had friends who had regalia, and that helped him to get started with dancing. He's also completed service projects which have enabled him to obtain more regalia he can use for dancing and ceremonies.

Jaren works hard to prepare himself for performance. “It's much easier if you know the songs beforehand. I try to memorize them.” Technology helps with this. Jaren notes that can find songs for MP3 players and that his lodge chief even has them on his iPhone.

His hard work and training paid off, as he and another Arrowman from his contingent took first place in the straight dancing competition. The competition has inspired him to continue dancing.

By participating in these dance competitions lodges can further improve themselves and show great respect for the Order's Native American heritage. There are other benefits as well: “If you want to run for office, participating in the dance and ceremonials teams helps you to move up in the OA,” says Jacob P. from Caddo Lodge in Shreveport, La.

With three years until the next NOAC, there is plenty of time to get involved with your Lodge's dance or song teams if you are interested. Jaren M. encourages all Arrowmen to take up the hobby, “Everyone should at least give it a try.”

Oath and Law for all BSA programs

The volunteer-led task forces supporting the 2011-2015 National Council Strategic Plan's Goal 411, after considerable deliberation, have recommended moving to the use of the Scout Oath and Law for all BSA programs. This change would primarily impact Cub Scouts and Venturing.

The recommendation has been reviewed and endorsed by the national support committee responsible for program content changes. It has also been discussed and endorsed by the national officers of the BSA, and Wayne Perry has directed that the recommendation be brought forward to the National Executive Board at its October 2012 meeting.

The basis for the recommendation is strategic in nature and is intended to reinforce the connection between all of our BSA programs and the mission of the Boy Scouts of America. Since it is the mission of the BSA “to prepare young people to make ethical and moral choices over their lifetimes by instilling in them the values of the Scout Oath and Law,” it is the task forces' judgment that this goal is best achieved if all programs use the Scout Oath and Law as their primary statement of values and ideals.

As the changes might impact Cub Scouts, consultation with cognitive and child development specialists and educational practitioners involved in Scouting supported the reasonability of the recommendation and did not identify any age-appropriate difficulties with implementation. Additionally, research among parents and Cub Scout leaders was also supportive.

The changes as they impact Cub Scouts would be implemented with the full rollout of the work of the 411 Task Force, scheduled for the 2015-2016 program year. The exact timing of implementation of the changes as they impact Venturing is not known at this time but is most likely 2014.

Comments and questions may be addressed to 411@scouting.org.

“On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law; To help other people at all times; To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.”

- Scout Oath

What's going on with training

ENGAGED ARROWMEN ENTHRALLED BY OA TRAINING.

ANDRE GIACALONE

This year's NOAC has brought great inspiration to all Arrowmen through training sessions, shows, activities, and more. The youth have been learning, some even by just walking around and absorbing the information all around them. But how can we continue our legacy of learning after the conference is over? Luckily, the Order has many programs to help continue the education of its members. We have programs for that like a lodge's LLD and similar programs.

The Order of the Arrow provides a training program for both youth and adults known as the National Leadership Seminar (NLS). NLS provides Arrowmen an in-depth look at the skills and techniques of leadership and how they apply to leadership in the Order and in everyday choices and decisions. This weekend-long program is held multiple times a year in each region and is led by the region chiefs.

For adults, the OA offers the National Lodge Adviser Training Seminar (NLATS). This training is only open to adults and is strongly recommended for lodge advisers, lodge staff advisers, and for potential lodge advisers. NLATS focuses on enhancing advisers' knowledge about the OA's strategic plan, making them aware of resources available, and developing skills essential to building effective youth leaders.

This last spring, the NLATS program experienced a major overhaul. The NLATS program now includes new classes and updated sessions to make sure advisers have the most current training resources. For example, a major focus of the program is a new class on the Journey to Excellence program. Other NLATS sessions focus on the aims and methods of Scouting and teaching participants how to perform risk management for lodge events and service projects. NLATS participants will also receive a thumb drive with copies of NLATS resources to use in their local lodges.

Reach the Summit with your brothers at Project 2013

2013 is code-name of the Order of the Arrow's involvement in the 2013 National Jamboree. Find out how you can have some crazy fun like your brothers in 2010.

JP FORD

Project 2013 is recruiting 700 Arrowmen to serve on the Order of the Arrow staff during the 2013 National Scout Jamboree at The Summit Bechtel Family National Scout Reserve. Project 2013 will be comprised of three groups: the Jamboree Trek Guides, Day of Service Guides, and the OA Service Corps. All three groups will support a variety of new and traditional activities at the Jamboree site.

This will be the largest service corps contingent in history and the Order is looking for the best Arrowmen in the organization to join Project 2013. Plan to attend NOAC 2012 and sign up as a Project 2013 participant. Please note that attendance at NOAC, although preferred, is not a prerequisite to be on jamboree staff.

The Project 2013 Corps will be structured similar to a lodge, with program leadership and chapters. Project 2013 will be a youth run program at the 2013

National Scout Jamboree led by Order of the Arrow leaders from around the country.

In addition to providing cheerful service, Project 2013 Corps members will be able to participate in evening recreation, visit jamboree program areas, staff the jamboree arena shows, and meet Arrowmen from around the nation.

Arrowmen may fill out an interest form online at www.event.oa-bsa.org. Questions may be directed to project2013@oa-bsa.org. Updates on Project 2013 will be sent out periodically. Arrowmen must be 16 years of age, but not older than 20 years of age by July 15, 2013. Preference will be given to Arrowmen who will be a Life or Eagle Scout by the start of the jamboree. Arrowmen will need the approval of their lodge adviser to participate. The 2013 jamboree will be held at the Summit Bechtel Family National Scout Reserve on July 15 - 24, 2013.

2015 will blow your mind

JONATHAN D.

2015 marks the 100th anniversary of the Order of the Arrow. Many preparations are being made for programs designed to commemorate this milestone in BSA history. One of these programs was just introduced at NOAC, known as the "box initiative." The box initiative is designed to help plan for the 2015 NOAC, which will be the largest event of the 100th anniversary.

The legacy box invites each lodge to place a few items inside the box including an engraved rock which will be used to build a fireplace and fuel for a literal fire of cheerfulness. The lid of the box is being utilized as canvas space for lodges to personalize and paint their lodge symbols.

Many other programs are being prepared as well, all being designed to be bigger and better than ever before. Arrowmen are advised to stay tuned for more forthcoming details on the exciting programs that will be offered at the 2015 NOAC!

Cheerful service at NOAC

BROTHERS HELPING EACH OTHER CARRY A LEGACY CRATE.

JONATHAN D.

This year at NOAC, Arrowmen from across the country had the opportunity to provide cheerful service to an important part of the Lansing area community. A service project was performed at Fenner Nature Center, where Arrowmen worked on an unfinished, overgrown trail. Participants cut new trail while restoring an overgrown trail. Arrowmen also worked to remove invasive species, such as honeysuckle and buckthorn, from the area.

The project was performed under the direction and guidance of foremen from the OA Trail Crew and Wilderness Voyage programs. The entire volunteer crew thought it was a great opportunity to perform cheerful service to the greater Lansing community. "It's great being able to come out here and help the center," Ethan C. of Ta Tsu Hwa Lodge said. "I've done a lot of trail work but never anything this big." The Fenner Nature Center includes over 130 acres of explorable habitats, including ponds, forests, wetlands, and prairies. It also holds over 4 miles of paved trails and a visitor center featuring live animals and interactive displays. Scouting was able to give back to the Lansing area, the Fenner Nature Center, and those who visit the center through their service. Through cheerful service like this, the Fenner

Nature Center, and other facilities like it, will continue to flourish and provide enjoyment to others for years to come.
